Patterson Inspires Who's Who Students

Mrs. Patty Patterson, front row, second from right, with President Luns C. Richardson, third from right, Dean Black and the 2012-2013 Who's Who students.

The President's Who's Who Honor Convocation/President's Lecture Series was held on Thursday morning to honor and induct 64 students into Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 2012-2013.

Mrs. Patty Jaye Garrett Patterson, director of public safety and welfare for the City of Sumter and Sumter's former police chief, described the honor as, "an awesome award" as she addressed the honorees and the campus community.

Patterson shared the following pearls of wisdom as she encouraged the inductees and the campus community to move forward by building upon their achievements: share the gifts you have, thank God for the gifts and his grace, use time wisely to make a difference, possess character and a positive attitude, learn as much as you can and be prepared. She also emphasized, "All students can achieve at higher heights."

She defined success as being prepared and "giving every effort your best." Sharing great insight and encouraging students to consider their impact, she said, "Every one of you is a part of history. You are the future. You are the 'land of milk and honey'; the land to be built upon. Give it your best. The best leader understands it is not about me. It is about team." She added, "When the tasks get daunting, look up."

Closing, Patterson instructed, "Leave a legacy for those who come behind. College students are the reservoir upon which our nation gains its strength."

President Luns C. Richardson said he was pleased to recognize the inductees as they "set an example for those who come behind." He also said, "The college's reputation is built upon the accomplishments of the students and the graduates." He applauded Interim Dean of Student Affairs, Eliza Black, for planning a wonderful program and added that everyone could gain inspiration from the speaker.

The president presented Mrs. Patterson with a token of appreciation.
